THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS

VOL. X. THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1914. No. 13

DR. THOMAS AT BROWN

One of the Principal Speakers at the 150th Anniversary Celebration.

Providence, R I., Oct. 12. As a part of the 150th anniversary of the founding of Brown University, four addresses on religious education were delivered by representatives of the four religious denominations mentioned in the charter of the institution. The speakers were President Edgar Y. Mullins of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., President Isaac Sharpless of Haverford College, President John M. Thomas of Middlebury College and the Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, bishop of Rhode Island.

President Thomas, representing the Congregationalists, took his theme from the first rules of Harvard College, which state that the main end of studies is to know God. He dwelt upon the fundamental place of religion in the educational scheme of the New England colleges of Congregational ancestry. He urged that the Puritans were as sincere in this type of education in desiring the welfare of their children as later educators have been, that the catechism was for the children, not the children for the catechism. He raised the question how much of the Puritan emphasis on religion should be maintained to-day and claimed that "divested of the forms of thought and the religious manner of a particular day, their principle that the religious motive, which is the establishment of freedom in the soul of man, shall guide and inspire every study and every instructor is as valid and valuable as in the age when the founders of New England education applied it so resolutely and in a manner so foreign to our thought. The main end of studies still is the victory. Health of body, keenness of mind and intensity of will we seek to enable them to put up a good fight: by discipline of spirit and nobility of character we endeavor to lift them above every defeat, that whatever the buffeting, baffling world may do to them, they may secure an inner triumph."

As to courses in the Bible and religious history, President Thomas said: "There is no department in which the instructor needs more to remember that he is teaching, not primarily a subject, but men, than the department of Biblical literature. Religion can not be taught disinterestedly, as a pure science. It has to do with vital concerns of those who learn and with the deepest problems of their life. They can not be kept in the classroom from inquiry as to what they shall believe and what principles they shall adopt. They should not be kept from such searchings of heart as to personal convictions when they study the faiths and the struggles for faith of the human race. They have a right to expect that their own serious interests shall be borne in mind and that some light may dawn for them on the problems of their own souls. Any course in religion, scientific though it must be in method, with full welcome to the sever-

LOSE FORDHAM GAME.

Middlebury Men Succumb After Hard Fought Battle.

The boys journeyed to New York, Saturday, the 17th, where they met the strong Fordham team on Fordham Field.

Fordham started the game with one or two substitutes in the line, but were soon forced to put in all the regular players to stop the rushes of Middlebury. All during the first half the game was very closely played and in fact, as the New York papers say, "Middlebury played a much better game than the score would seem to indicate." Middlebury threatened Fordham's goal line by pushing the ball to her eighty-yard mark, but there lost the ball on the fourth down, when an illegal forward pass was called back. Middlebury's line was somewhat weakened by putting in substitutes for some of the regular players and it was then that Fordham really won the game.

Middlebury's handling of the ball was somewhat poor, but aside from that the boys played a strong all-around game and showed a better result than 28 to 0. The line-up was as follows :

Fordham.	Position.	Middlebury.
J. Conkling,	l. e.	Jones
Blake,	l. t.	Condit
Rice,	l. g.	Fish
Wymard,	c.	Lange
N. Conkling,	r. g.	Chapman

"PICK" FISHER RETURNS

Successful Season with New York American League.

Our physical director and star pitcher of the New York American League club is with us again after a successful season with his team.

"Pick" pitched 22 games, winning ten and losing twelve. He did not take part in as many games as usual owing to illness in the middle of the season. "Pick" also pitched in hard luck, losing many of his games by the small margin of one or two runs. His defeats were due to the fact that his team did not get runs behind him, for "Pick" pitched an excellent brand of ball this season.

All in all he is well satisfied with his season's work and will be seen in a "Yankee" uniform when the next base ball season comes around.

W. I. Twitchell Dead.

'77. W. I. Twitchell, a graduate of Middlebury College in the class of 1877, died suddenly October 16th at the Arsenal School at Hartford, Conn., of which institution he was principal. Mr. Twitchell was born in New Haven, Vt., in 1852. He has taught in Warren, Mass., Windsor, Conn., and at Hartford. He has been active in educational work, being at one time president of the Hartford County Teachers' association and the Hillyer Institute, vice president of the Twentieth Century club and a director of the Hartford Public Library. Mr. Twitchell also had considerable reputation as an author and among his literary contributions may be mentioned "The Pathfinder in American History." He is survived by his wife (nee Emily P. Day of Danielson, Conn.), Paul L. Twitchell of Pittsburg, Pa., and Willis I. Twitchell, jr., his sons, Daniel Twitchell of New Haven, Vt., and Herbert Twitchell, vice president of the Chemical National Bank of New York. Mr. Twitchell was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity.

Game Cancelled.

The U. V. M. and Middlebury second teams, which were scheduled to play on Porter field Saturday last was cancelled owing to rain.

ORGANIZE FOR DEBATING

Freshmen Debating Enthusiasts Make Plans for Try-outs and Elect Officers.

On Wednesday evening, October 7, about 30 of the freshman class held a meeting in the chapel and re-organized the Freshman Debating Society.

Prof. A. D. Wetherell presided and in opening the meeting made a few remarks, explaining the origin and purpose of the society. He stated that it was first organized several years ago, the main idea being that it should give training to those freshmen who were interested in debating and parliamentary practice, not only because of the benefit they themselves would receive, but to prepare them to compete for places on the teams representing the college. He said that in former years the society had also sent out freshmen teams to compete with similar teams from neighboring colleges and that the results had been very successful.

A motion was made and unanimously carried that the society organize for the coming year. Balloting for president resulted in the election of H. S. Creed of Sea View, Mass.; for secretary, Edwin R. Holden of Hackettstown, N. J.; for treasurer, Charles I. Lyon of Stamford, N. Y, Ralph H. Beaumont of Roxbury. N. Y., was elected chairman of the executive committee with power to chose two assistants. He has announced as such Burton R. Clement of Sallisbury, N. H., and Smith Webb of Beacon, N. Y.

It is planned to hold a practice debate on October 23 on the subject, Resolved, "That in the United States all young men should receive at least two years' military training." Greene, Lyon and Shedd will support the affirmative; Holden, Drew and Mann the negative. This debate will be closely followed by others until all who desire have had a try-out, when the class teams will be chosen.

Further plans are not made as yet, but will be announced from time to time. It is safe to say that the interest aroused among the entering class along this line is very keen and some warm competition will doubtless result.

R. P. I. 21; Middlebury 7.

In a fast and snappy game at Troy, N. Y., October 10, Middlebury college lost to Rensselaer, 21 to 7, Middlebury scored its only touchdown in the first period on a forward pass of Kron to Jones, and the latter ran 55 yards for a touchdown. Rensselaer scored in the first period when McKensie recovered a fumble and by the two first downs Lockman carried the ball for a touchdown.

In the third period Lockman scored again after line plunges by Ransley and Gallagher and a penalty on Middlebury.

In the last period Rensselaer was on the jump and scored in the first minute of play by a forward pass, Gallagher to Parrott, Parrott running 15 yards for a touchdown. Gallagher kicked all three goals for Rensselaer.

EDITORIAL.

Did you ever stop and consider that a college paper might be made of more value to a college than any other one factor in college activity? Do you know that almost every college of import publishes a weekly paper, and many colleges even one or more dailies? Do you realize that "Middlebury" is now barely supporting a twenty-copy-a-year magazine? Does Middlebury lack aggressiveness? Would you admit that she is not as good as other colleges?

People of Middlebury, we have got material for a paper, we are competent to run a successful magazine and we owe it to the college to do so, but we lack one thing, one thing which holds us back, and thwarts every attempt to develope along this line—college support. We are now so deeply in debt that we simply don't dare to publish a paper oftener than twenty issues a year or to enlarge the paper beyond six pages. With two hundred dollars to our credit what a world of opportunity could be opened up and developed. Two hundred dollars! Think of it! Two hundred dollars for the advancement of good old Middlebury: How are we going to raise it?

Fellows, WE'VE got to do it; you and I; everyone. Are there any graduates or parents of students who think enough of "Midd" to help us; with a complimentary advertisement for instance, or a subscription? Then give the thing a start, for once on a basis where it will be worth while as an advertising medium it will more than support itself.

Now is the time to help the college, friends, for in spite of her hundred and fifteen years Middlebury is now in a creative period and every penny given now will be worth a dollar later on.

We hear a great deal just now concerning college spirit. College spirit can best be fostered in a college paper. Let us extend a little of this spirit we now feel to the "Campus."

In another page you will find a subscription blank and an advertisement coupon. Let us hear from you to-day. Remember it's for "Midd."

A notice appeared the other morning in Starr Hall somewhat forcibly requesting freshmen to refrain from making any disturbance in the dormitory after eight o'clock at night. Now it seems to the editors that such a request is a very reasonable one and should not be disregarded. It is certainly a fact that some action of this kind should be taken preferably by the students themselves, or if not, by the faculty.

It has been noticeable ever since college opened that some of the freshmen regard their rooms solely as a place to sleep in and prefer to do their so-called studying in some one else's room or else prefer not to do any studying at all, but to spend their evenings calling on first one member of the class and then another. This very seriously inconveniences those who desire to study and yet are too polite to tell the intruders to get out. In many prep. schools the rules forbid all visiting after eight o'clock and it begins to look as if something of the kind should be introduced at Middlebury. However, it seems a pity that fellows who have arrived at the dignity of college matriculation cannot forget some of their sociable inclinations without being forced to do so.

Now that we are coming again to the monthly dances, let us try to make them more democratic than they have been lately. That is, everyone who cares anything about dancing attend them and help make them a success. For are they not college dances and planned with the idea in view that we have a form of entertainment to relieve the strain of college work; and all of us need a change to make life better and fuller?

This fall there seems to be the general feeling that "I've never studied so hard in my life." Now you have heard that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." So attend the dances, and go with the feeling that you are going to enjoy every minute and you will be better able to go back to your college work.

Some people will not go unless they are invited. I repeat what I said about their being college dances to which everyone is supposed to go. Don't be dependent on someone else, for once one begins to be dependent, they do not know how to find enjoyment for themselves. Now what will a young woman or a young man amount to that does not know how to look out for himself?

So have a true Middlebury spirit and add to all our entertainments a feeling of good will and loyalty to our Alma Mater.

Can't Something Be Done—

To save our campus trees? At the present rate of chopping trees it won't take long to completely sheer the campus of its greatest beauty. A tree with green foliage need never be sacrificed, yet what was once, and is yet a remarkable group of trees,—remarkable in variety and perfection of specimen—is rapidly being cut away.

FINE PRINTING,

Anything from the smallest and to the largest book promptly executed in the highest style of the art preservative.

THE MIDDLEBURY REGISTER

prints all the important college news every week. All interested in the college should take the Register, $1.00 a year in advance, in the village.

The Register Company,

We have heard a great deal of complaint recently concerning the condition that the men's tennis courts are in at the present time. Only one court can be used at all and that one is so rough that no decent tennis can be played on it. At least forty per cent of the men in college are players and it seems that they should be willing to contribute some small sum towards getting the courts into shape. It would be fully worth while as there is nearly a month yet in which the sport can be indulged in and the courts would be in all the better shape when the season opens next spring. We respectfully submit this suggestion to the Tennis Association and hope to see them take some action thereon.

Dancing.

As we all know, dancing well done, offers little or no opportunity for adverse criticism. It is only the dancing which is badly done which causes unfavorable comment. Much of the trouble rises from the fact that the dances we know are the ones we have just "picked up" from other people. The result is that we execute them badly and in a manner which certainly does not appear graceful to the onlooker. How can it be helped? We do not any of us want to be back numbers. We want to know the new dances. An attempt at solving the difficulty has been made by the introducing of dancing classes on the hill. It is to be hoped from this that a marked improvement will be noticed in the gracefullness of dancing at the next social dance.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

I. Quiet.

There shall be no disturbing noise in any room or corridor during the morning hours from 8:30 to 12:30, during the afternoon hours from 2 to 4:30, and during the evening hours after 7:30 o'clock. Sat rday afternoon and evening shall be excepted.

The doors of all college houses shall be locked at 10 o'clock.

Guests entertained in the evening shall leave five minutes before the hour fixed for the closing of the house.

After an evening entertainment closing later than 10 p. m. the doors shall be locked thirty minutes after the first student has registered.

II. Lights.

All lights shall be extinguished at 10:30 p. m. Permission to keep lights burning after 10:30 may be obtained from the house chairman. The house chairman shall use her discretion in granting this permission.

Students returning from evening entertainments later than 10:30 shall be allowed to keep their lights burning for twenty minutes without reporting to the proctor.

III. Registration.

On leaving town or on leaving a college house after 6 p. m. all students must register time of departure, destination and probable time of return.

All registration must be canceled immediately on return.

IV. Chaperonage.

Driving is never permitted except with two couples, and in the evening only with an approved chaperone. There shall be no Sunday driving except with parents or with special permission from the Dean.

Boating is never permissible in the evening or on Sunday, and in the daytime only with two couples.

Walking is not permissible in the evening unaccompanied by an approved chaperone. This does not debar students from going to approved evening functions or to certain places if properly attended.

The term evening as here used shall be interpreted to mean 7 p. m. in the winter months (October 15 to April 1), and 8 p. m. in the remaining months.

Approved chaperones are members of the faculty and wives of the trustees and the faculty.

In general no student shall make one of a party of more than eight under one chaperone.

Women may receive calls any time Sunday afternoon or evening and on week days after 5 p. m.

In general members of the association are not to engage in practices which might injure the good name of Middlebury women.

est critical analysis and respect for its bearing on the permanent religious problems of men, which were never more pressing than at the present day.

"Religious instruction in our colleges has failed of its largest effect because it has not been sufficiently religious. In the re-action from unscientific methods in theology and uncritical use of scripture we have filled up our courses with criticism and science and left out the spirit and the soul. We have analyzed the husk and forgot the kernel. If the courses in the department of religion known as searching and vital studies of the enduring religious problems of humanity and of the questions of faith which confront every man who lives earnestly, on the basis of the great literatures which deal with those questions, and if it were a matter of common knowledge that every student taking such courses would be brought day after day to real grip with the very issues of life, our religious teaching would strengthen mightily its hold upon the student heart. Only by such procedure can we carry out the Puritan tradition in religious education, and that much of the tradition at least we can doubtless all agree should be preserved."

An Interesting Address.

An extremely interesting and helpful address was delivered before the men of Middlebury College last Monday morning by Charles M. Ellinwood of Boston, Mass. Mr. Ellinwood is the field secretary of the Florence Chittenden League of Compassion, an organization having for its aim the raising of the moral standard of the neglected young people of our cities. Mr. Ellinwood is a forcible and attractive speaker and understands the art of reaching the hearts of his hearers to an unusual degree. His address Monday was in a large measure an appeal to the students to endeavor to enter into and maintain closer and more friendly relations with their instructors. He mentioned very aptly the motto of the city of Chicago, with the enormous expansion which has made that city one of the largest in the world. "I will" was this motto and Mr. Ellinwood urged in the strongest degree his argument that all college men adopt it as theirs. The will to do good work is not for the praise of instructors alone but for the benefits to be gained from it. The will to live clean lives, free from any taint of immorality or dissapation; the will to have high ideals and to live up to them was the theme of his address. He only spoke for a few moments, but during that time gave messages which must have helped many of those who were fortunate enough to hear them. It is earnestly hoped that sometime in the future Mr. Ellinwood may again find it possible to address an audience composed of Middlebury students.

Vespers.

Following a custom begun during the summer session, there has been a vesper service held in the social hall at Pearsons, every Sunday evening. The meetings begin at quarter to seven and are in the nature of a song service. It is very easy to drop in to them after supper, and they close in ample time for anyone who desires to attend the services down town. Let us show the right spirit, and attend in good numbers.

Tea in Honor of Middlebury's Dean.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Throop Dean of Women at Middlebury College, was entertained by Miss Terrill at a tea given in the sun parlor at Grassmount.—Vermont Cynic, Middlebury Union.

The first regular meeting of the year was held September 30th at McCullough gymnasium. There was a large attendance and it is to be expected that none of the incoming men will refrain from securing membership in the organization this year. Among other business taken up, it was voted to admit faculty men to membership, and there is no doubt that many of the latter will take advantage of the offer.

A vote of thanks was extended to the donor of the new Union rooms, whose name, however, was not made public.

Following the meeting a "smoker" was held in anticipation of the Amherst game. Dr. Harrington, Coach Francis, Dr. Lambert, Professor McFarland and Captain Jones were the speakers. The band, under the leadership of Hendry, did good work and Cheer Leader Dade closed the event by leading the men in a few cheers.

On October 15 a "smoker" was held under the auspices of the Union. Professor Abbott, Captain Jones, Manager Cabot snd Day, president of the Union, spoke, and the boys were given a good send-off on the Fordham trip.

Through the generosity of an unknown giver the Middlebury Union has now established in the southern end of Painter Hall, club rooms for the use of all college men. The rooms have been nicely furnished and are lacking in but one item, a piano, which it is hoped will soon be supplied. The rooms will be used not only for social purposes, but also as a "Trophy" room.

A vote of thanks has been extended to the giver, to whom the boys are truly grateful, although somewhat handicapped in giving expression to their sentiments.

A "Smoker" will be given under auspices of the "Union" on Thursday evening of this week, in anticipation of the St. Lawrence game on Saturday next.

It is to be hoped that all the college as well as those local people who conveniently can, will be on hand to witness Middlebury "trim" her old rival.

Middlebury's defeats this season do not signify an inferior team. She has played hard games and her weakness was due to the fact that the team lacked experience. The "Smoker" will insure a larger attendance from the college and a display of better spirit.

Dr. Thomas, Prof. Swett and Prof. Bryant will be the principal speakers.

Everybody out Thursday night, then for the "Smoker." That's where the big show will be at "Midd."

The schedule for future "Smokers" this fall includes:

October 23, for the St. Lawrence game.

October 30, for the Springfield, Y. M. C. A. game.

November 5, for the M. A. C. game.

November 13, for the Norwich game and November 20 for the U. V. M. game. All "Smokers" begin at 7:30. All are invited.

The Victrola Fund.

The girls on the hill are going to have a Victrola! Miss Throop has promised ten dollars toward it. The Tuesday evening club has also promised ten dollars. The rest of the money is to be raised by voluntary contribution. There is a box in Miss Throop's room for this purpose. She has promised to shut her eyes when we put money in, so we need not be ashamed of our contributions if they are obliged to be small. It's an opportunity. Don't miss it.

Fordham Honors Rudolph.

"Dick" Rudolph, the Boston National League pitcher, received the greatest ovation ever accorded to a former Fordham athlete just before the Fordham-Middlebury football game at Fordham Field Saturday, October 17. Led by a band and escorted by the entire undergraduate body of Fordham, Rudolph proceeded from the Marvin gymnasium to the gridiron.

The procession stopped before the grand stand and Lester Patterson, President of the Undergraduate Athletic Association, presented Rudolph with a gold watch fob as a token of esteem from the present students of his Alma Mater. Following his address the Fordham cheer leaders started a wild burst of college yelling for the Braves' pitcher. Charles Deal, third baseman of the Bostons, was also on hand and shared in the plaudits. The fob bore the following inscription: "To 'Dick' Rudolph, a Fordhamite, of the World Champion Braves, from the Fordham University Athletic Association.

A number of other former Fordham heroes were on hand, including Assistant District Attorney Glennon, Louis Hartman, formerly manager of the Utica Club; E. Scelss, third baseman in 1906; Collard of Fordham 1909 eleven, and D. Brant, leader of the Elks in the Bronx.

Tuesday Evening Club.

The club of last year known as the Dramatic club, meeting for dramatic and current events, is to be known this year as Tuesday Evening Club. On October 13 officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Ginevra Harlowe; vice-president, Helen Kenrick; secretary and treasurer, Marjorie Leach. At the first meeting, October 6, several girls told of the work they had done during the summer, discussing the pros and cons of the work. Solos were rendered by Louise Reynolds and Hazel Rogers. October 13 the delegates from Middlebury Y. W. C. A. told of the Y. W. C. A. conference at Silver Bay which they had attended in June. The conference was described both in the work and play. Between the talks were given songs used at Silver Bay. The account closed with the "stunt" and the Middlebury call and cheer.

Senior Class Election.

At a meeting of the senior class October 7 the following officers were named: President, Sistare; vice-president, Miss Tracy; secretary, Miss Tooley; treasurer, Hunt. The report of the business manager of the Kaleidoscope was read and accepted.

Musical Association.

The Women's Musical Association held their first rehearsal Wednesday afternoon in the Hemicycle. Professor Royce acted as leader. There was a good attendance although more are needed for a successful chorus. Miss Ruth Keet was elected as representative to the Social Board.

CURRENT EVENTS.

There was a large attendance Thursday evening, October 16, at the town hall in Middlebury to greet Candidate Charles A. Prouty who is running for the United States senatorship on the nomination of three parties. The hall was well filled and among the auditors were many ladies. Prof. Raymond McFarland of Middlebury college, Progressive candidate for congressman from the first district, presided, and called the meeting to order at 8:15 o'clock. Professor McFarland spoke for 20 minutes and gave a resume of the present situation in State and national politics from the Progressive standpoint, after which he introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Charles A. Prouty of Newport, who was greeted with loud applause. This was Mr. Prouty's first appearance in Middlebury and he was listened to with close attention for an hour and a half. He defined the Progressive party, saying that the object of the true Progressive was to benefit the individual member of society and that no law which did not do that was worthy of consideration. He stated that his reasons for running as a non-partisan candidate were that in no other way was it possible to prevent the reactionary element in the Republican party from controlling the United States Senate, and he asked aid from Republicans and the members of other parties, as in no other way, he thought, would the State be able to rid itself of the ring rule which for many years has dominated the Republican party of the State of Vermont. Mr. Prouty was given an ovation at the close of his address.

Vermont's unhappy experience with the dread disease of infantile paralysis serves to focus attention on the progress that is being made to combat is and find some way of delivering the country from its curse. For a long time doctors have been all at sea in regard to the disease and unfortunately it has to be said that they occupy almost this situation at the present time. However, Dr. Simon Flexner has announced that he had been able to isolate and transmit the germ and there is hope that he may develop from this knowledge some preventative treatment. About all that is known of the disease now is that it sometimes results in death and most frequently cripples its victims more or less seriously. It is also felt that the disease is transmitted by means of the membranes of the mouth, nose, and lungs. It has been thought that flies and insects were agents. The experts are seriously at the task of finding a way to rob the disease of its terror and possibly to stamp it out. There is reason to believe that they will be successful and once again the world will be a great debtor to preventative medicine and to the members of a noble profession that is untiring in its zeal to improve the lot of human kind.—St. Albans Messenger.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—Hugo Munsterberg, professor of psychology at Harvard University has offered his resignation to President Lowell. This action is the result of a letter sent by Major Clarence Wiener of London to the overseers of the colleges to the effect that he would change a will by which Harvard would receive $10,000,000 unless Professor Munsterberg were dismissed from the faculty. "Unwarranted pro-German utterances," by the famous psychologist in connection with the war were given by Major Wiener as the reason for his attitude.

"I sent my resignation to President Lowell so that there might be no embarrassment in the matter and that the faculty might be left free to act without having to consider my feelings," said Professor Munsterberg, President Lowell refused to discuss the resignation.

The Harvard corporation is expected to take up Professor Munsterberg's resignation next week.

Wayne Bosworth Writes of Experiences.

Mrs. W. H. Bosworth of Florence has received a letter from her son, Wayne, who has a Rhodes scholarship in Oxford University, and has been traveling on the continent while awaiting the opening of the fall term. He tells of a journey from Geneva, Switz., to Paris on the last special train sent out for the benefit of American tourists. Mr. Bosworth and his party had a fairly comfortable, but very slow, trip to Paris, but secured places on the train for Dieppe only after a desperate struggle, in the course of which they lost their baggage. It was equally difficult to board the channell boat, and some of the party were left behind. When in Paris Mr. Bosworth saw in the air a German aviator, who had dropped bombs upon the city. Oxford students to the number of 1200 have received commissions in the army, and some of the American students have enlisted. It is thought that three-fourths of the Oxford students will be at the front.

Mr. Bosworth graduated from Middlebury college in the class of 1911 and formerly lived at Bristol, Vt.

The Outlook.

The football season to date, as far as the big teams are concerned, has been somewhat of a disappointment. Harvard, Yale and Princeton came through with wins last Saturday but Pennsylvania and Cornell met with bitter reverses at the hands of the supposedly weaker teams of Franklin and Marshall and Colgate. It was simply a case of the players not being drilled in the fundamentals of the game, so that they were at sea when it came to solving the quick shifting and bewildering attack of their lighter opponents.

Even Harvard, with its wonderful backfield combination, could not solve the forward passes of the Springfield Training school, with the result that Springfield gained 175 yards on eleven of these plays. Springfield made ten first downs to Harvard's seven, which goes to show what a light team with the open attack can do against heavier opponents. This point is further illustrated by the fact that Virginia, well coached in the open game, especially in wide-circling end runs, rushed the ball 260 yards in the game against Yale. This is the most ground that has been gained against Yale for years, with the exception of the last Harvard game, so it would seem that a team like Middlebury's should try to perfect the open game to the fullest extent. The varsity cannot hope to make consistent gains through the heavy Massachusetts Aggie line by rushing, while in the case of the Springfield Training school, why not meet them at their own game, only a little better? Although these two teams are probably the best we will play, the greatest interest is in the Vermont game which will probably be played November 21.

Vermont in her first game was defeated by Williams 3 to 0, and from her lineup looks to have a fairly strong team. Norwich has met defeat at the hands of Brown and Dartmouth, the latter team piling up 74 points. This might lead one to believe that Norwich is unusually weak but the fact is the team is composed of nine freshmen and two upperclassmen who didn't play last year. So we shouldn't jump at conclusions in regard to Norwich, as they can be depended on to develop a fast, agresssive team before November 14.

The Middlebury team has prospects of developing into a mighty good eleven. The fellows are all working hard and together, which counts for a good deal in the open game, which requires above all, good teamwork. The fellows all have confidence in Coach Francis to develop a fast team. It is up to the whole student body to stand back of the team and let them know we are with them. It would encourage the players more than is realized if the fellows would go down to the field and watch the practice. So let us show the team that we are behind them and there will be no need to dread the final results.

Freshmen-Sophomore Meet.

The chief topic of conversation on the hill just at the present time is solely of the chances the freshmen have of defeating the sophomores in the track meet to be held on Porter field Friday, October 23.

This meet is an annual event and is held chiefly for the purpose of interesting the freshmen in athletics and to aid the coaches in determining available material for the varsity teams. The freshmen are already taking much interest and sizing up their men. A very large number have chosen track work as their sport and appearances point to a successful meet.

The complete list of events is as follows: 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, half mile run, mile run, two mile run, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, high hurdles 120 yards, low hurdles 220 yards, hammer throw and shot put.

The sophomores have held their meeting and elected as captain H. E. Hollister. At present the freshmen have not elected their captain, but are expecting to do so soon.

Women's Athletics.

A meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was held October 17 in the Hemicycle. The report of the Silver Bay delegate was given and reports of the different committees heard. The new members were taken in and an outline of the work for the coming year stated.

Basket ball practice is to be begun at an early date in order that several games may be played before the Christmas recess.

A tennis tournament has been formed and a start made at playing off the sets.

For those who do not play tennis or basket ball or care for other sports, a walking club has been provided.

Another feature of the women's athletics is to be "Archery." This is to begin as soon as the implements of warfare can be procured.

There is something sadly lacking
In the girls of Pearsons hall
'Cause they always are a-clacking
And they don't be still at all

The ones who are really ailing
Are the ones on fourth and on third
Constant uproar is their failing
And they won't hearken to a word.

When anyone enters that region
Great Bedlam greets the ear
Their number could truly be legion
Judged from the racket we hear.

When a girl is a sophomore at college,
Some of these are juniors to be sure,
We'd think she'd acquire enough knowledge
To sometimes be still and demure.

And so we would like to implore them,
Those girls on fourth and on third
If it won't too badly bore them
"Let QUIET be your word!"

A TELEPHONE CONVERSATION.

Dan. M.— called up Pearsons for Mr. Hunt and asked for Day who was in attendance at the Social Board meeting. The following conversation took place.

M.—"Hello—This Mr. Day?"

Day—"Yes."

M.—"My name is Martin, I'm from Plattsburgh, N. Y."

Day—"Oh yes, yes. Glad to talk with anyone from Plattsburgh. What can I do for you Mr. Martin?"

M.—"I'm an attorney and I have a woman here who claims to be your wife, she will talk to you."

Day—(in great confusion) "No! No! It isn't so. I don't want to talk to her—I won't—It's a lie!"

(Mr. H.— then took the wire.)

Prof Wetherell. The Puritians were members of the church of England who, as their name signifies, wished to "purify" the church. Obviously one method of purifying the church was to resign their membership and—

O.—hesitates.

Prof. H.—Would you feed a baby condensed milk Mr. O.—?"

O-tt-m blushes and stammers "No."

Prof. McFarland—"Whitney, do you use a typewriter?"

Whitney—"Yes, sir."

Prof. McFarland—"I wish you would."

People in the chemistry building should obtain knowledge concerning professors' whereabouts before sliding down bannisters.

JUST A LITTLE LOVE, A LITTLE KISS.

He kissed her eyes, her nose, her mouth,
The tip of her shell like ear,
And coughed and sputtered as up he rose
He'd swallowed a bit of veneer.

"KISS" DEFINED.

"Kiss" is a conjunction because it connects. It is a verb because it shows that the persons kissing are not related. It is a proposition, being sometimes proposed. It is an interjection—at least it sounds like one. It is a pronoun because "she" always stands for a kiss. It is a noun because it is the name for an action; both common and proper, plural number, masculine and feminine gender. It should always begin with a capital letter, be often repeated, continue as long as possible and end with a period. "Kiss" might be conjugated but should never be declined!

Robert F. Bundy, '14, who used to favor the Campus occassionally with snatches of what he called his "versifications," has been heard from again. The following poem was copied from a Canadian daily newspaper.

From a Yankee.

The silvery sound of the bugle
Came calling through the night—
Calling the sons of Britain
To muster for the fight.

I wonder as I listen
To summons so sublime:
"Will the echoing of that bugle
Be heard across the line?"

Aye! "Blood is thicker than water"
Is the message of all time!
Aye! In need shall Britain's bugle
Be heard across the line!

New York Alumni Entertain Team

Following the Fordham game on Saturday last, the football team was entertained at a dinner and smoker given in their honor by the New York alumni at the Cumberland hotel. Sanford H. Lane presided and introduced Dr. Thomas, who gave the principal speech of the evening, and Mr. Brown, Mr. Wales and Capt. Jones. "Bob" Hunt also gave a speech and led the cheers and songs. The alumni were present in large number at the game and gave the Middlebury team loyal support during the game. About two hundred graduates were present. Altho' the Middlebury team lost the game, they put up a hard battle against heavy odds and well deserved the credit accorded them.

Reception to Miss Cook.

On Tuesday, October 20, the Women's Association of Congregational church gave a reception to Miss Stella Cook at the home of Mrs. M. A. Monroe. Miss Cook has recently been commissioned as missionary of the American Board to Foo Choo, China. She will leave for Foo Choo in November.

Miss Cook graduated from Middlebury in 1910.
